

RUSSIA HEEDS WARNING SIGNS

Of Frequent Riots in the Empire and the Growth of Liberal Ideas.

SOME SORT OF REPRESENTATION

In Government Will Now Be Granted to the People and a Free Press Are in Project.

[SPECIAL BY SCRIPTS-M'RAE.]
St. Petersburg, Dec. 15.—Russia is heeding the warning of the riots in the empire and the demand of the people for a voice in the government. There is no longer any doubt that the government intends to commit itself to very extensive reforms, as the result of the liberal agitation begun when Prince Sviatopolk-Mirsky made his advent as minister of the interior.

The zemstvoist demand for a direct representative body to make the laws of the nation will not be granted, but some medium in the form of a representative consultative body, which can voice the wishes of the people direct to the sovereign, seems the probable outcome. An entirely new law for the liberalization of the press also is apparently certain.

The plan for a consultative body, first proposed by Prince Vasilchikov twenty years ago in connection with the demand for a land parliament, forms the basis of the scheme now under consideration.

Prince Vasilchikov contended that nine-tenths of the population of Russia were totally unprepared to exercise political rights, thus including the peasantry of a general franchise. He proposed a zemskaya duma, or land council, composed of zemstvo representatives endowed with a consultative voice in the government. While nothing has been absolutely decided, Prince Sviatopolk-Mirsky is said to favor this plan. In fact, it is his desire that Prince Vasilchikov's son shall succeed him in the event that complete failure of his health compels him to retire.

A police officer who tried to search the dormitory of the Polytechnic Institute was beaten and kicked downstairs by students, crying, "Remember what you did in the Nerski prospect Sunday."

It turns out that at the trial of Sasonoff, the assassin of Interior Minister Von Plehve, he delivered a speech in his justification. Sasonoff afterward was taken back to Viborg prison. Sviatopolk-Mirsky was taken to the St. Paul and St. Peter fortress. The effort of the application of Emperor Nicholas' manifesto at the birth of his heir reduces Sasonoff's term from life to four years, and the punishment of Sasonoff and Sviatopolk-Mirsky to ten years of penal servitude.

M'GOWAN SAYS THE GUN WAS LOADED

And Tells Jury In Codman Case How He Used As a Fortress.

me gowan says the ball
There were real bullets in the cylinder of the revolver pointed at F. L. Hull by B. M. Codman at Milton Junction on Nov. 29, according to the testimony of Edward C. McGowan who appeared on the stand for the prosecution today. Witness told the details of the little incidents leading up to the fight in a graphic manner, insisting that Codman uttered opprobrious epithets evidently meant for Hull as the two were passing down the stairs from the voting booth in the Patrons of Husbandry hall and that Hull finally stopped and said to him: "You can always find me at the head of incorporation." Now it appears that Codman was not in favor of incorporation, so this did not ring pleasantly in his ears. After that the witness testified that Codman addressed Hull direct concluding some rather strong preliminaries with the ejaculation, "You've got four or five hundred dollars of my money. Why don't you settle?" At that he is alleged to have taken off his overcoat and waved into Hull, striking him once on the shoulder and twice on the head. McGowan did not see Hull take a knife out of his pocket but alleges that Codman went back to his overcoat and secured what looked like a six-caliber .28 caliber revolver. He came back, according to the witness, flourishing the weapon and trying to draw a bead on Hull, who had dodged behind McGowan and with both hands on the latter's shoulders was using him as a sort of movable fortress. McGowan said that he could see that there were bullets in all the chambers, though he could not tell whether or not there was a cartridge in the barrel. Much of the time the gun was pointed at the fortress at a range of three feet and witness testified that "the fortress," becoming uneasy, told Codman to "shoot or throw the thing away." After that bystanders interfered. The prosecution finished with its witnesses early this afternoon and the defense began his case. The trial is likely to be continued over until tomorrow.

DEMANDING THAT SENATORS RESIGN

Circulars Posted in Denver Asking Teller and Patterson to Resign.

[SPECIAL BY SCRIPTS-M'RAE.]
Denver, Dec. 15.—A political sensation was caused by the flooding of the city with circulars charging Senators Patterson and Teller with neglecting their duties at Washington in order to remain at Denver and fight for the democratic crooks now on trial in the supreme court, and calling upon them to resign because of the fraud at the elections at which the legislature which sent them to Washington was chosen. In a signed statement this morning Sen. Patterson says Teller is here because of the illness of Mrs. Teller at this juncture. He charges the republicans with conspiracy to rob Adams of his seat, steal the senate and packing the supreme court for corporation purposes. He concluded he could do more good in Denver than Washington in aiding the defeat of the conspiracy.

Paris, Dec. 15.—Despite the statement of Mrs. Chadwick that her husband had called for America, Dr. Chadwick is still here. He said, however, it was his intention to return home.

The Czar—Gracious! you look worse to me than the Japs.

SAVASTOPOL WAS BADLY INJURED

Definite Word Comes to Tokio of the Bombardment of Russian Ships.

[SPECIAL BY SCRIPTS-M'RAE.]
Tokio, Dec. 15.—A dispatch from Port Arthur announces definitely that Sevastopol has been damaged. Further details of the torpedo attacks upon the battleship Sevastopol have been received, as follows: "One torpedo boat is still missing. The remainder have returned in safety. The Sevastopol was yesterday reported sunk in three feet of water. From eleven-thirty December 14th to three o'clock this morning the torpedo boats kept up an incessant attack on the Sevastopol, the torpedo boat Orvinsky and a commissioned ship. The details are not yet reported but at nine this morning the observation station reports Sevastopol's bow further sunk and its torpedo tube submerged completely."

MORMON'S OATH IS TO BE SWORN IN

Startling Announcement of Witness in the Smoot Inquiry Case.

[SPECIAL BY SCRIPTS-M'RAE.]
Washington, Dec. 15.—The retribution obligation taken by the Mormons in the endowment house ceremony, as quoted this morning by J. E. W. Lundstrom, a witness in the Smoot proceeding, is as follows: "Oh, God, eternal Father, we ask Thee to bless the church and holy priesthood, and help us to keep Thy commandments, and that all that raise their hands against Thy church be cursed forever, that vengeance be visited upon the nation for the blood of Joseph Smith." Lundstrom declared his separation from the church arose from a discrepancy between the late and early revelations of the prophets.

MRS. CHADWICK AT CLEVELAND

Great Crowds Await Her Home Coming and Hiss Her on the Streets.

WOMAN HAD TO LISTEN TO JEERS

Condemned Before Her Trial, Woman Is Subjected to Inhuman Treatment at Hands of Mob.

Cleveland, O., Dec. 15.—A mob of 10,000 jeering, hooting, yelling men greeted Mrs. Cassie L. Chadwick upon her return to Cleveland Wednesday afternoon.

Insulting epithets were hurled at her from hundreds of voices as she entered a carriage and was driven to the United States marshal's office through densely crowded streets.

"Where are your securities?"

"How about the diamonds, Cassie?"

"When are you going to pay up?"

These questions were dinned into the ears of the frightened woman all the way from the railway station to the United States marshal's office and then to the jail.

Breathless, pale, and staggering, Mrs. Chadwick was half carried up the flights of stairs leading to the marshal's office. Then she swooned. When placed in a cell she again fainted.

Such was the homecoming of the woman who a month ago was recognized as one of the wealthiest women in Cleveland, and against whom, so far as the public knew, there was not a breath of suspicion. She did not expect such a reception. As her train left Ashtabula her words were: "And the next stop will be home."

Crowd Jeers Woman.

The train pulled in at the station at 2:10 p. m. The crowds in waiting had been growing since 11, but the train had been delayed. When it finally rolled into the station there was a rush from the farther end of the iron fence that kept the crowd of curious from the tracks. This mob had broken on through the police, swarmed over the fence, and through the gate upon the track, so that when the train came to a standstill there were about 1,000 persons about her car.

When Mrs. Chadwick caught a glance at the crowd which swarmed about the train shed and was grouped in various points on the heights surrounding the station she shrank back into a corner of the car and said: "I cannot see why all those people should be here."

The crowd had become impatient with the delay of Mrs. Chadwick's appearance, and began to jeer and whistle. As soon as Mrs. Chadwick was recognized there was a spontaneous outbreak of jeers, whistles, and shouts of coarse epithets.

As soon as the police could clear a way and bring about some semblance of order about the depot platform, the crowd of jeers and whistles towards the car, and out through the entrance.

After the transaction of the formal proceedings transferring Mrs. Chadwick from federal to state custody, the trip to the jail began. The carriage passed through streets with thronged curbs only to run the gauntlet of another mob that had been gathered for hours. Into the jail the prisoner was hurried to the accompaniment of more shouts and jeers, and the clicking of photographers' cameras.

Bill Collector Is Felled.

After he had been in jail several hours a man acting for a local livery firm which claims Mrs. Chadwick owes it $35 for unpaid bills attempted to serve a summons on her in the suit which was brought in a justice court, but Sheriff Barry declined to allow him to do so.

A local organization of women, claiming to have a membership of 1-300, has protested to County Attorney Keeler against giving Mrs. Chadwick any privileges not accorded any other women, and Sheriff Barry said he had no intention of doing so.

Later in the evening Mrs. Chadwick, who had regained her composure, said that she would stay in jail for the present.

MAKE STATEMENT IN GORMAN CASE

Secretary of the State Barbers' Board Issues a Formal Announcement.

In speaking of the trouble between the barbers' board and Mayor Gorman of Kenosha, Secretary Rook of the board is quoted in a Milwaukee paper with the following statement: "Mayor Gorman of Kenosha cannot follow the trade of barber without a license, in spite of the verdict of the jury which found him not guilty of a violation of the barbers' law. He has promised to apply for a license, but if he does not, we shall immediately arrest him, and hope we shall get a conviction the next time, as he has promised to take the case to the supreme court in that event. Nothing could please us better, as we want to have the law tested by our highest tribunal. We are as anxious to know whether the law is constitutional as any practicing barber, but have absolutely no fear but that we shall be upheld in everything we have done."

WALKED IN SLEEP; FELL DOWN FLIGHT OF STAIRS

Miss Ruth Erickson Luckily Escapes Serious Injury in Queer Accident.

Monday morning about 2:00 o'clock Miss Ruth Erickson had a very narrow escape from sustaining injuries that might easily have been of a very serious nature. As it was, she is now confined to the house with a bruised face. She arose in her sleep, proceeded from the room and fell down a flight of fifteen steps, which are directly before her door. Members of the household were awakened by the noise and found her lying at the bottom of the stairs with a bruised cheek and nose. She was unconscious a greater part of the morning. Her condition though painful is not serious.

There the street was almost blocked and well nigh impassable to the carriages and teams.

Gets Hot Reception.

During all this time the crowd kept hooting and jeering, and as the carriages rolled away from the station they were followed by some of the crowd. The shouts and cries were taken up and passed along, all the way to the federal building through the busiest part of the city. Business men on the way home, shoppers, and laborers seemed to have been notified of the woman's arrival, and crowded to the curb. The jeers and hoots were taken up along the entire line, and as each square was passed the crowd continued to increase, and to avoid the increasing excitement the officials arranged to approach the federal building from the rear.

The police were forced to drive the crowd away with clubs, while they extricated the carriages from the tangle with the coal wagons, near the federal building. After consuming about twenty minutes in going a distance of about twice as many feet, the prisoner's carriage was drawn up at the rear of the federal building, and, with the officers, she was taken to the marshal's office on the fifth floor.

After the transaction of the formal proceedings transferring Mrs. Chadwick from federal to state custody, the trip to the jail began. The carriage passed through streets with thronged curbs only to run the gauntlet of another mob that had been gathered for hours. Into the jail the prisoner was hurried to the accompaniment of more shouts and jeers, and the clicking of photographers' cameras.

SCHOOL CHILDREN DROWN IN RIVER

Suspension Bridge at Charlestown, West Virginia, Collapsed This Morning.

[SPECIAL BY SCRIPTS-M'RAE.]
Charlestown, W. Va., Dec. 15.—The suspension bridge over Elk river collapsed this morning, carrying down a number of school children with it. Three bodies were recovered. Three teams, which were on the bridge at the time of the accident, were drowned, but the drivers escaped.

The twenty children and three teams were precipitated sixty feet to the ice, which broke and the children struggled frantically in the freezing water. All but two were rescued. Mamie Hagelbohm, aged 11, and Ray Humphreys, aged 15, were dead when taken from the water. Several were injured. Ira Woods, a driver, is missing and it is thought his body is under the ice.

GOOD ARGUMENT IN FAVOR OF THE BEET FACTORIES

What Rock County Farmers Raised, and the Profits Received From Their Crops.

LIST OF GROWERS NUMBERS 175

Does It Pay To Raise Beets? Is Answered by the Actual Figures Which Are Presented for Consideration to the Readers.

The Gazette is devoting considerable space to the new industry, with a view to furnishing reliable facts and figures for the benefit of its many readers who are interested.

The paper has already had something to say about the cost of making sugar in addition to the cost of beets, and in this article will be found the names of 176 farmers who have raised beets for the new factory this year. The list also includes the acreage, tonnage, and amount received for the crop. It will be noticed that the 327 acres produced 5821 tons of beets, or an average of 17.45 tons per acre. The amount of money received for the 327 acres was $22,159, or an average of $67.77 per acre.

It will also be noticed that the average acreage for these 176 farmers is small, less than two acres each, which goes to show that careful, intelligent culture on the part of the average farmer pays well. Particular attention is called to the crop of 3 1/2 acres, raised by C. W. Green, on Magnolia Avenue. Mr. Green is a city employee. He performed the work himself, securing 77 tons of beets, which brought him $261.90.

Part. Flood cultivated 5 1/2 acres on the old fair grounds, for which he received $561.22. These figures are all reliable, as they were taken from the books of the company within the past few days. The list is as follows:

While there are some dissatisfied beet growers this year, the fact remains that a large majority of the farmers engaged in the industry are well satisfied with the results, and the company anticipates no trouble in securing a liberal acreage next year.

Experience demonstrates the fact that the man who cultivates a small piece of ground, well receives the largest reward. There is hardly a farmer in Rock county who cannot raise year after year from two to five acres that will net him from $50 to $75 per acre. This can be done without neglect to the balance of the farm and will pay him better than any small piece of land which he may own.

The Rock County Sugar Company is no longer an experiment. It represents in whole cash an investment close to one million dollars. The man who owns the most of it has a wide experience in large investments. He has confidence to believe that the farmers of Rock county will appreciate his efforts to establish a new market for a new industry which not only adds to their revenue, but also adds to the value of every acre of land in the county.

The Gazette is of the belief that Captain Davidson will not be disappointed and that the acreage next year will be large enough to run the factory to its limit for at least four months. If this can be done, it will distribute to the farmers of the county, $350,000 before Christmas, and will also give Captain Davidson a fair return for his investment.

The largest success to this new industry can only be secured by hearty co-operation. The merchants of Janesville can afford to be enthusiastic and while they may not engage in the culture of beets they will share in the benefits of the crop every year that it is successfully raised. There is more money in circulation today than at any year in the history of the city, and it is very largely due to the beet crop recently harvested. As a result times are good, men are paying their debts, have the cash to buy with, and everybody is happy. This experience may be repeated every year if everybody works for the success of the new enterprise. If you can't raise beets, don't attempt to raise them by kicking. This is an age for pushers and not for kickers. If everybody lends a hand Rock county will soon enjoy a national reputation on sugar. "So mote it be."

SABLES THAT COST A FORTUNE
In other days the rich and rare Russian sables were usually made up in large capes and wraps, styles being especially selected that would not call for much cutting into the skins. Now, however, every freak and fad or fickle fashion is reproduced in these costly pelts just as freely as in cheaper ones. The latest fancy is shown in a short jacket of exquisitely dark sables, the shape being somewhat on the Eton order, with deep front and long postillion back. There is a high roll collar that turns up about the head and face when desired; the fronts are rolled back in revers that are faced with appliques of real lace, the fur itself being somewhat too bulky to be used double at this point. The sleeve is the full puff pattern that belongs to the current season's styles, and groups of sable tails are posed at intervals with excellent and jaunty effect. The muff is of the new square variety, with a double fringe of the tails for decoration, and the round turban is likewise of the fur, with an Empire green plume posed at the back for its sobering.

To supply the holiday traders with the very thing they want with the least possible inconvenience and at a reasonable price seems to be the aim of every merchant in Janesville. With this end in view nearly all the retail dealers have increased their forces, which are being rushed more and more as Christmas approaches. Shoppers bent on obtaining presents and trifles for their friends find countless inducements for spending money, but the housekeeper of moderate means, who looks about with some apprehension for the prospects of supplying a large family with a substantial Christmas dinner, is greatly interested in the turkey and farm produce market.

Christmas Prospects Fair.
The Christmas turkey situation is none too promising. With the lessened supply and increased demand caused by the fact that many of the factories and the larger business institutions will make presents of turkeys to their employees, the price is bound to be higher than at Thanksgiving day.

The above is the claim of several who are in a position to know what the conditions will be but still others believe that the price of turkeys may be lower than at Thanksgiving time. Just at present the grocers are paying the same price to the farmers at which the birds were retailed at Thanksgiving time.

A large number of ducks and geese will also be sold while dressed meats, which show no particular change in prices, may be substituted in a large number of homes.

The weather man has been working in the interest of the consumer thus far this season. Comparatively warm weather has caused the hens to lay later than usual and the storage people are not likely to realize as handsome a profit on their holdings as indications earlier in the season led them to believe. The demand for fresh eggs is not yet as large as the supply and a plenty can be purchased now at a reasonable price for this time of the year. It is not likely that eggs will reach the high water mark reached before the end of February.

Whether it is the manipulation of the market by the Elgin board or the drop in the supply that caused butter to advance again is hard to determine, but the recent changes in the price of this product have been a source of annoyance to the merchants and the consumers. Dairy butter was selling yesterday at 26c, while creamery butter brought 29 cents a pound. Oysters are one of the principal objects on the market. Local merchants are kept busy supplying those who want bivalves. Fish is being used more generally as the weather becomes cold.

Plenty of Nuts and Fruits.
There is every indication that Santa Claus and others will find one of the best assortments of fruits and nuts for the holiday trade that the market has ever offered. The line of fruits that will be marketed within the next two weeks will contain everything from New York apples and Florida oranges to California raisins and figs, and it is promised that these will be retailed at reasonable prices. Growers and shippers report that the market will be loaded and that some of the best fruits ever handled will be ready for the Christmas shopper. The nut market is also showing some excellent lines.

FROM THE ASHES.
Baltimore Family's Experience Points a Moral to Residents of Janesville.
The visitor to Baltimore today scarcely realizes that less than a year ago the city was almost destroyed by a memorable fire. A similar comparison might be made by George W. Nally, one of the leading citizens of Baltimore, as to the change in his own looks.
A short time ago, Mr. Nally, writing from his home address, 2213 Barclay St., says: "I have been troubled for years with catarrh and had resorted to all remedies that could be thought of. My wife was also afflicted with this terrible disease, but all the treatments we used were an absolute failure until we tried Hyomel. It worked like a charm and has made a complete cure in both of our cases. There is no disagreeable stomach dosing in using Hyomel. We breathe, eat, and its fragrance, so clean, pure and bracing, killed all the catarrhal germs in the head, throat, and lungs. The experience of Mr. Nally and his wife certainly points a moral to all readers of the Gazette who are suffering from catarrh. It shows how they can be cured of this frightful disease, without dangerous stomach dosing. People's Drug Co., the local agents for Hyomel, have so much faith in the treatment that they give their personal guarantee to refund the money in case it does not benefit our cases. It costs one dollar, the extra bottles are but fifty cents. Ask to see the strong guarantee under which Hyomel is sold."

...Forty Years Ago...

Janesville Daily Gazette, Thursday, Dec. 15, 1864.—Direct from Nashville.—Capt. King of the 8th regiment arrived in the city last evening, having left Nashville on Monday. He reports the situation unchanged there as far as military matters are concerned. Deserters say that Hood's troops are composed of men from Tennessee and Kentucky, and Hood is bound to stay because his men are determined not to go back south. His army is reported by deserters at 60,000 men, large numbers of whom are Union conscripts who have pressed into the ranks and will set into our lines as soon as opportunity presents itself. Hood has captured three of our trains and has got possession of a small portion of three railroads with which he manages to keep his army supplied with food.

Our informant is not inclined to think there will be a battle fought there very soon, unless Hood makes the attack. Thomas is watchful and vigilant and disposed to patiently bide his time. General A. J. Smith who has recently joined Thomas with 11,000 veteran troops from Missouri, has become very restless under the delay and declares with much more emphasis than politeness that he can whip Hood's army with his own troops if Thomas would only give him the chance. Smith is over sixty years of age but is as full of pluck as a bull dog.

Judge Nagle.—What the sentiment of the people in this county may be concerning the election of circuit judge next spring, we do not know. Nothing has been done or said in the matter. But one thing is tolerably sure, and that is that Judge Nagle has made a good judge, and that the people, and we believe the bar, are very well satisfied with him. We do not believe there will be any opposition to him from this county, should the balance of the circuit express a preference for him.—Whitewater Register.

Return Home of Capt. C. P. King.—Capt. C. P. King of company G, 8th regiment, arrived home last evening from Nashville, having been mustered out of the service. He has been in the army for three years and five months during all of which time he has acquitted himself with marked honor and ability. He will be warmly welcomed home.

A Steam Fire Engine.—Janesville is anticipating the question of procuring a steam fire engine. Any city large enough to have an engine at all should have a steam one. They are infinitely more economical.—Milwaukee Sentinel.

The number of hogs packed at Chicago up to Saturday was 400,000. The Tribune thinks there will be a short crop. A large proportion of the hogs now arriving are poorly fattened.

Coming Attractions.

Miss Selma Herman will present at the Myers Grand tomorrow evening a new play, entitled "Wedded But No Wife," in which she will portray the leading role of "Whispering Will." Miss Herman is one of the youngest as well as the best of emotional actresses, and her career has been remarkable for the reason that she has never yet encountered a failure. Whether this is due to good management, or good luck, we may not say. The fact remains that she is looked upon as a most desirable party by theatrical managers desirous of launching new productions. "Wedded But No Wife" was presented last season in Boston, Chicago, New York and Philadelphia, and was pronounced a success. Miss Herman, whose popularity in the Western country is unbounded, anticipates even greater success here. Her managers have left nothing undone to enhance the value of the attraction, and promise that everything connected with the presentation will be first-class.

Women as Well as Men Are Made Miserable by Kidney and Bladder Trouble.

Kidney trouble preys upon the mind, discourages and lessens ambition; beauty, vigor and cheerfulness soon disappear when the kidneys are out of order or diseased.

Kidney trouble has become so prevalent that it is not uncommon for a child to be born afflicted with weak kidneys. If the child urinates too often, if the urine scalds the flesh, or if, when the child reaches an age when it should be able to control the passage, it is yet afflicted with bed-wetting, depend upon it, the cause of the difficulty is kidney trouble, and the first step should be towards the treatment of these important organs. This unpleasant trouble is due to a diseased condition of the kidneys and bladder and not to a habit as most people suppose.

Women as well as men are made miserable with kidney and bladder trouble, and both need the same great remedy. The mild and the immediate effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It is sold by druggists, in fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also a home of Swamp-Root, pamphlet telling all about Swamp-Root, including many of the thousands of testimonial letters received from sufferers cured. In writing Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., be sure and mention this paper. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

PHILIPPINE NEEDS.

Secretary Taft in his annual report carefully reviews the situation in the Philippines and makes some recommendations which should receive the early attention of Congress when it assembles in January. The necessities of the islands have compelled the expenditure of large sums on public works calculated to promote prosperity and advance civilization. The result is an annual burden, heavier in proportion to the present wealth of the islands than that borne by any English tropical colony. The secretary wisely suggests that the Philippine government be permitted hereafter to distribute the cost by means of a bond issue. These improvements will develop the country, and if payment for them is deferred for a reasonable period it will fall more justly on the beneficiaries. Especially, in view of the depressed condition of trade, is it unfair to assess the entire cost of these permanent betterments on the taxpayers of today.

Railway extension is greatly needed as an instrument of progress and enlightenment, and Secretary Taft has given much consideration to ways and means of securing it. He discusses the scheme of land grants adopted to encourage our own Pacific railroads, but, as the value of such grants is difficult to estimate, he prefers a government guarantee of a moderate interest on investment for a reasonable period. This recommendation is likely to provoke sharp differences of opinion, but such a guarantee, with proper safeguards for railroads really needed, would probably entail no great burden on the government. It would be cheaper than government railroads, besides avoiding the dangers of scandals in management.

A third recommendation should be immediately adopted, for it would simply correct what seems to have been a mere inadvertence in previous legislation. The present tariff in the Philippines was made by the Philippine Commission under authority of the act of congress, conferring legislative and other powers on the President and his appointees. When the civil government was organized Congress re-narrowed the law then in force in the Philippines, and in so doing took from the local government the power to modify its own work. This was probably not foreseen, but, at any rate, it was unwise. The local duties do not effect us except remotely. They are levied for local expenses. Congress has not the information needed to regulate these duties, and they should be controlled and modified as occasion arises by the local authorities who originally made them. A law granting the general power of making the local tariffs to the Philippine Commission and, after it was organized, to the Philippine Assembly would remedy the present difficulty.

Then, the tariff on Philippine imports into this country is unreasonably high and operates as a harmful barrier to the development of commerce and sympathy between the Americans and the Filipinos. The secretary renews the plan of Secretary Root, endorsed by Presidents McKinley and Roosevelt, that the duties be greatly lowered. He suggests that on sugar and tobacco 25 per cent of the Dingley duties be levied and that other Philippine goods come in free. As sugar and tobacco are the only Philippine products which could compete with any of our own, there is no reason why this should not be done. The proposed duties on sugar and tobacco also would be ample, and there is no prospect that their production would be so stimulated as to menace our own industry. Whatever else is done about the tariff in the near future, these concessions to the Philippines, which the best judges consider necessary to their welfare and the solution of our problem, should at once be made. It is not a question of generosity, but of enlightened selfishness. The sooner we make the Philippines contented and prosperous the better for us.

WILLIAM APPELEY.

In so much as the Twilight club saw fit to endorse the candidacy of William Appeley for the office of city marshal and the consensus of opinion of the business men of the city seem to favor his election, the Gazette deems it expedient to urge his selection upon the common council at their next meeting. William Appeley is well-fitted for the position and should receive a majority of votes for the office. He is a shrewd man with rare police and detective ability, and undaunted courage. He has twice faithfully served the county as sheriff and also served as an officer on our police force. He is thoroughly acquainted with the city and the disturbing element, and would make an excellent city marshal. The council would make no mistake if they select him, and the general opinion of the tax payers seems to favor his selection.

CLEAN YOUR WALKS.

Complaints without number are being continually registered against property owners who do not clean their walks. Vacant lots and vacant house owners are particularly annoying in this particular and the city law which requires all walks to be cleared of snow within twenty-four hours should be rigidly enforced. Let the acting marshal see that this is attended to, and if he fails let the council take some radical action. It might be a good thing for some one to address a man to make this his platform for reelection. "Clean Sidewalks."

For some time the favorite amusement of northeastern Ohio grand juries will be to indict Mrs. Chadwick.

Acrotic.

Cheerfully we hail thee, all voices join in song;
History has no festival that brings such joy along;
Ring loud the bells—their tidings all must hear,
Innocence, love and purity all in one appear.
Shining brightly overhead the guiding star they see,
Telling of his birthplace, our Lord of all to be.
Messengers are speeding their glad some news to tell,
Angels watching over him, while many a prayer is felt,
Sweetly sing Hosanna to our Savior, Lord and King.

ARE OVERSTOCKED WITH ORDERS NOW

Badger State Machine Company Have Immense Order for Self Feed Rip Saws.

What is probably one of the largest orders for self feed rip saws ever placed by one firm is now being filled by the Badger State Machine Company at their shop on North Main street. The order calls for fifteen woodworking machines of this description which are being manufactured for a Chicago jobber. On account of this abnormally sized order a force of twelve men are busied in the making twelve and a half hour a day. In all the company now have orders on their books calling for eighty machines of various patterns. The productions of the Badger State shops are punching and shearing machinery and wood working machinery.

The shops were started up about two years ago and from a most modest beginning have increased and made hundreds of large machines, and now the owners can truthfully say that they have machines in every state of the Union and in all the manufacturing portions of Canada. Agencies of the Badger State machines have been established in each state from Florida to Washington and from California to Maine and also in the principal Canadian cities on the St. Lawrence river, on the Great Lakes and in British Columbia. A large number of the woodworking and punching and shearing machinery used in the manufacturing of Canada is purchased from American agents and so there are in the British domain in America many more Badger State machines than have been shipped direct from Janesville into that country. The orders that the company now have on file are sufficient to keep the shops running with a complete force of men from now until next spring, and the prospect is that there will be orders ahead several months at that time.

NEED MORE COIN FOR UNIVERSITY

Large Appropriations Will Be Asked for the State Legislature This Winter.

The university board of regents considered several matters of importance at its recent meeting. Substantial appropriations were asked for the support of the state university to cover a number of improvements, including a building for the promotional department, additional equipment and changes for the new chemical building, extensions for the school of pharmacy, additions to the library of the law school, and a broadening of facilities in the college of agriculture. An appropriation of $110,000 was made originally for the new chemical building, and of this $95,000 was put into the construction, leaving only $15,000 for the equipment which is inadequate, and more money is needed. An appropriation was asked for the completion of the north wing of the historical library building, which is nonnally connected with the university and is on the campus. This probably will cost about $100,000.

"The faculty is anxious to have the promotional department extended to increase its usefulness," said Regent J. M. Perless. "To accomplish this in the day desired, a special building of this department is considered necessary, where all the laboratories and lecture rooms can be located. Additional facilities are much needed by the school of pharmacy, which is now handicapped by lack of room and equipment. All these matters were reported on in full at the meeting of the regents when the report of the legislative committee made."

"The visiting committee will recommend an appropriation of $15,000 for the university law school," said W. J. McElroy, one of the members of that committee. "This estimate has been prepared by the dean of the law school on figures received from publishing houses, and includes provisions for sets of law reports necessary to fill out the present deficiencies in the library and to provide duplicate sets. It is desired to have at least six full sets of Wisconsin reports, as they are much used by the students, and several are usually looking for the same volume at the same time. Besides these, standard legal text books are needed for reference purposes. The library facilities in the law school building will be enlarged to accommodate these new volumes, if they are obtained, by partitioning off one of the lecture rooms which adjoin the library."

"The committee also will recommend that the law school building be devoted entirely to law studies, and that the university offices which are maintained there be either moved to university hall or to a building of their own, which would mean another appropriation. Unless this is done, the question of room with the additional space taken up by the strengthened library will be a serious one. It has been proposed that a gallery be erected in the reading room, and that the new books be stored there, but this probably would spoil the lighting."

FOURTEEN HUNDRED BARRELS PER WEEK

Will Be Made at Rock County Sugar Company's Cooper Shop by Robert Clark.

Robert Clark, proprietor of the cooper shop on South River street which is engaged in the manufacture of kegs for the Barb Wire works, and of the barrel factory on north Main which furnishes the flour barrels for the Blodgett Milling Company, has secured the contract for the making of the barrels for the Rock County Sugar company. He has recently received several car loads of staves, hoops and barrel heads which have been unloaded in the cooper shop of the sugar company's plant in Spring Brook. Seven men will be hired to help in the work and when the shop is running at full force there will be four hundred barrels put together a week. This seems to be an almost incredible number to be manufactured in six days' time by but seven men, until he sees the men at work and he holds these rapidly the staves are fitted and the heads placed and hoops riveted on. Very few tools outside of a hammer, a cooper's knife and cooper's plane are necessary from the time the staves are placed in the form until the barrels are rolled from the way of the manufacturer in a complete condition.

Mr. Clark at his shop on South River street has received lately an immense shipment of heads, staves and hoops which will be used to make kegs as receptacles for the malle manufactured at the Barb Wire works. There was in the shipment one carload of staves, one of hoops and another of heads which when put together will make nearly thirty thousand kegs.

SEEK COMBINE OF ALL PHONE LINES

Interstate Independent Companies Will Take Matter Up Seriously.

Mr. Richard Valentine is in Chicago in attendance at the meeting of the Interstate Independent telephone companies' gathering. The plan to unite all the independent companies to fight the Bell line is in progress of formation and a committee has been appointed to thoroughly discuss the question and find some means of accomplishing the move. In his annual address President Barnhart said: "A year ago the importance of our having connections with Chicago was urged, but the conditions of location stand the same today. The necessity of some arrangement is more pressing than ever before. We have St. Louis, Minneapolis, St. Paul, Cincinnati, Louisville, Indianapolis, Cleveland, Toledo, and Detroit. With Chicago connections we could bridge over the last gap in the central west." Referring to the Bell company as "constructionists," Mr. Barnhart continued: "The life of our enterprise may depend on our discretion in guarding against the machinations and intrigues of a competitor that has shown us no consideration, but intimidation and arrogant destructive competition. If we succeed, it will be on principles of square dealing with our patrons." If the national and interstate associations are combined a vigorous resistance to the Bell company is predicted. Statistics were cited to prove that the 8,000 independent companies in America controlled more than 3,000,000 telephones while those in the service of the Bell company numbered less than 2,000,000. Interconnection, it was declared, would result in a more complete service than the Bell company now offered.

Mr. Fathers is asked to inquire among old members of the lodge in this city as to whether or not Mr. Boyles lived here prior to 1858.

NO SUBSTITUTE

has yet been found for cod liver oil. There are so-called extracts, wines and cordials of cod liver oil that are said to contain the active principles but not the oil itself. This is absurd on its face. You might as well extract the active principles of wheat and make bread with them. The best form of cod liver oil, that can be digested and assimilated most easily, is Scott's Emulsion.

VARIOUS MATTERS DISCUSSED

City Marshalship Fight, Cleaning
Sidewalks and Formation of Polo League.

To the Editor: As you have kindly asked for communications on the question of the coming city marshal, I would like to say a few words. Personally I have nothing against Mr. Brown, but as an officer and city marshal I do think he is efficient enough to meet the growing requirements of the city. I have been informed that there is considerable playing cards for large sums of money going on in the city at the present time; that, even as late as the first of the present week, a gambler from another city was caught with what is technically known as a "harness" upon him in one of the card rooms; that he might have been more roughly handled by the men in the room than was the traveling man who recently lost a considerable sum of money and refused to pay and was then beaten up on the streets the next day, had it not been for the fact he was a cripple. Things like this give the city a bad name to the traveling public. While they do not always get into print they are repeated about and grow in proportion as the story is told. Janesville should be free from all such incidents. There should be a city marshal who would stop these things at once and nip gambling in the bud. The enforcement of ordinances is also another important item to be considered and every day ordinances are violated and no attention paid to it. I think when the legal side of the recent voting at the council chamber on the question of marshal is looked into it will be found that William Appleby was elected. He received five out of the nine members voting. Five is a majority of nine and despite the fact Mr. Comstock was elected and still remained in the room. I think it can be shown that technically he was absent, although present in person. If this is so and I am right let Mr. Appleby be given authority to act at once and stop evils that we know exist. Let him reorganize the department and let the council back him.

"A SECOND WARDER."

Wants Legal Opinion

To the Editor: Excuse me from writing to you again on the same subject, but I do not quite understand your answers to my questions asked yesterday regarding the election of William Appleby as city marshal. Was he or was he not elected by the five aldermen who voted for him? This is a point of law I would like to see explained. Will you kindly give the law on this point?

"A SUBSCRIBER."

To the Council

To the Editor: Is the common council or is the city marshal responsible for allowing certain sidewalks in the city to remain covered with snow since last Sunday and forcing people to wade through it to and from downtown? Can you kindly answer this for "A CITIZEN"?

To the Editor: As other cities have a polo city league why should Janesville not form one? It would be excellent sport and a team from each ward would make the game interesting. Why not some of those interested call a meeting and organize a city league?

"AN ATHLETE."

LAST SAD RITES FOR J. C. ECHLIN

Funeral Services Were Held This Afternoon at 2:30 From Home of Deceased.

This afternoon in Oak Hill cemetery was tenderly laid to rest that which is mortal of the late J. C. Echlin. Funeral services over the remains were held from the family residence on Mineral Point avenue at 2:30 o'clock. Rev. R. C. Denison being the officiating clergyman. Those who sang during the services over the dead were Mrs. W. S. Jeffris, Mrs. S. H. Lewis, Mr. W. S. Jeffris and Mr. William Bladen. The floral offerings were most profuse and beautiful—symbols of the high esteem and great respect in which Mr. Echlin was held while in life. The honorary pallbearers were: David Jeffris, J. L. Ford, J. T. Wright and E. T. Foote. Those who acted as pallbearers at the funeral of the late Mrs. J. C. Echlin. They were: Frank R. Joseph W. and Samuel B. Echlin, sons of the deceased; Dr. R. J. Hart and H. J. Cunningham, sons-in-law, and E. D. McGowan.

William Martin

Death summoned William Martin yesterday morning at 5 o'clock at his home in Albany, Green county. Mr. Martin was eighty years of age at the time of his demise and has been a resident of Green county for the past forty years where he has always been held in the highest respect. There are left to mourn a wife, a daughter, Miss Helen, and a son, John, of Huron. Mrs. Maggie Conroy, No. 5 Center street, is a niece of the deceased. Funeral services over the remains will be held tomorrow morning at 10:00 from the St. Rose church in Albany.

Uriah Terry

At 11 o'clock this morning from the family residence in La Prairie were held services for the late Uriah N. Terry. Rev. Davidson officiated. The pallbearers were L. Yeomans, George Turk, S. Childs, A. Proctor, W. Frost, A. Caldwell. Interment was in the cemetery at Emerald Grove.

S. C. Cobb and daughter, Miss Gertrude, left today for Pacific Grove, California, where they expect to spend the winter.

TRADES COUNCIL HOLDS A DEBATE

Discussed Municipal Ownership at Their Monthly Meeting
Last Night.

Last evening at the regular semi-monthly meeting of the Trades' Council the members listened to a very interesting debate, the subject of which was, "Resolved, That municipal ownership is beneficial to the community." Messrs. Osborn and Jas. Cassidy represented the affirmative side of the question, while Messrs. McKeligue and Smith handled the negative. The entire membership present acted as judges, and by an overwhelming vote was declared in favor of the affirmative. It was decided to hold another such debate at the last meeting in January. The question will be, "Resolved, That the union man and his family should affiliate with the Women's International Union Label League." Ed. Falter was chosen to represent the affirmative and M. H. Whitaker the negative, the leaders to choose one assistant. All union men are welcome to listen to these debates, which will in all probability be held once a month during the winter months.

INDICTMENT OF HILL IS NOLLED

TROUBLES ARE ENDED FOR MIL-TON JUNCTION MAN

AND FORMER POLICE CAPTAIN

Of Minneapolis Under the Regime of Ex Mayor Ames—Action Taken Yesterday.

With the dismissal of all indictments for bribery and corruption against ex-Mayor Ames of Minneapolis the court has also granted motions to nolle the indictments against Erwin A. Gardner who testified that he acted as agent in collection of the "graft" and former Police Captain Charles H. Hill who also testified to graft collection. The two latter, according to the dispatches, had turned state's evidence and their services to the state were rewarded by freedom.

Lives in Milton Junction

Capt. Hill has many friends in Rock county who sympathized deeply with him when he was arrested on the 16th of September, 1903, while at work on his thirteen acre farm and brought to Janesville to await the coming of Sheriff J. W. Dreger of Hennepin county, Minnesota. On the day following the announcement of his apprehension here grossly exaggerated statements appeared in Chicago papers charging Hill with being the Napoleon of the whole graft campaign.

Faced His Accusers

There were other accusations to the effect that he had fled to the far west and had later been traced to the east and that finally all clues to his whereabouts were lost. Capt. Hill showed all these accusations to be absolutely without foundation. Mr. Hill was a police captain in Minneapolis up to 16 years ago. He came to Milton Junction first in 1895 and sixteen years ago settled there and engaged in the work of making amasses. Three and a half years ago Ames became mayor and sent for Mr. Hill to come back and take the captaincy again. He had held that office one year when the scandals came to light which caused Ames to flee to the east. Hill, realizing that he would lose his position, resigned. But he did not leave Minneapolis. Throughout the session of the grand jury which indicted Ames, his brother, Chief of Police Fred Ames, and other high officials, he remained in Minneapolis.

Left His Address

Several attempts to indict him for taking bribes failed, and with the close of the jury's sitting Capt. Hill withdrew to Rock county. At the same time he left his address with the post-office officials and stood in readiness to go back whenever he should be called upon. He willingly accompanied the officer who appeared here a year ago last September, stating at the time that he was glad to go and have the whole thing over with.

DAILY NEWS HAS ITS OWN OPINION

Believes That the Governor is an Active Candidate for the Senate.

From now on Gov. Robert M. La Follette must be counted on not as a possible factor but as an active factor in the senatorial fight, says The Milwaukee Daily News.

Strong indications are coming to light that the announcement by Gov. La Follette of his candidacy for United States senator at Toledo was part of a studied plan by which it was decided on Sunday last to get the name of the governor before the public.

The sentiments expressed by the state senators on the United States senatorial question at the caucus Saturday were by no means liked by the La Follette leaders, and showed that there was even among the members of the administration forces a pronounced sentiment against the candidacy of the governor.

These expressions indicated also that unless the governor got into the field at once he would have no chance whatever in the fight. Thus the announcement in the interview at Toledo was decided upon, and following closely upon the heels of this there is printed in the local La Follette organ a communication from R. M. Bashford, one of the governor's confidential advisers at Madison, declaring strongly for the governor for senator.

This communication also has the earmarks of being a part of the program. More than this, the local leaders for the governor have since the interview of Monday night begun active work in his interest and have evidently received the bunch from Madison that the "dogs of war" are again loose and that the campaign for Robert M. La Follette for United States senator has been officially begun.

SHE ASKS FOR A LARGE SUM TODAY

Mrs. Elizabeth Hopkins of Footville,
Wants Heavy Damages
From Railroad.

The case of Elizabeth Hopkins of the village of Footville, this county, against the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway company, is being tried in the circuit court today. Mrs. Hopkins alleges that on September 15, 1903, the defendants received her into one of its cars as a passenger, at the village of Clinton, in this county, for the purpose of conveying her to the city of Delavan. As she proceeded toward the door at Delavan, using due care, and just as she was about to step off the car, the train suddenly started, without any warning to her, whereby she was thrown with great force upon the floor of the car, fracturing her right leg above the knee and slightly below the hip; that she was bruised and wounded in other portions of her body, and her nervous system permanently shattered. For these injuries she asks judgment against the railway company for the sum of $15,000. The railway company makes complete denial.

REFERS THE MATTER TO TWILIGHT CLUB

Acting-Marshal Brown Says Organization Which Is Settling Most Everything, Should Take Up

Frozen Feet Episode.

Poor Commissioner Kenyon this morning took William Needham, the man with the frozen feet, to his home in Magnolia. Medical attention for the man was secured last evening, and it is expected that his parents will not refuse to receive him. Acting Marshal Brown, in speaking of the matter this morning, said: "It is mighty hard sledding for the sick or injured who are brought to the city lock-up but we are powerless to do anything for them. A few months ago a man who had his shoulder thrown out was brought here and I sent for a physician. The doctor attended the man but he has never been able to collect any pay for his services. About three weeks ago we had another suffering with pneumonia, and medical aid was secured for him. Again the physicians responded to the call were turned down when they tried to collect the pay that was due them. Quite naturally the doctors now sidestep from jail calls. They are not going to attend to this work for nothing—not even thanks on the part of the city. We ought to have a city physician to look after these cases. I think I will bring this matter before the Twilight club, it seems to be settling most everything just now."

GENERAL TOBACCO MARKET WAS LIVE

Over 8,000 Cases of Seed Leaf Were Disposed of During the Week
Just Passed.

Although it is nearly the close of the year, which in the national tobacco market is customarily a dull time, the past week has been a most lively one. Over 8,000 cases of seed leaf were sold, which is probably one of the heaviest sales ever made at this time of the year. Of this amount nearly one-half was Gebhardt seed, about 2,000 boxes 1902 Wisconsin and the balance Pennsylvania broad and other leaf. Almost all this quantity was contracted for by the larger factories which commence to realize the fact of the shortage in the stock of leaf tobacco and are hastening to get under cover in time. In pursuing this policy they are able not only to get the available leaf not only for their needs but to get also at a lower price than what they foresee they will have to pay if they should merely depend on a waiting policy and buy from hand to mouth. Under conditions prevailing, prices are bound to rise from one to two cents on all grades of leaf in a few months. And the extraordinary spurge of the market during the past week unerringly forecasts the rising market.

THE GRAFTERS

By FRANCIS LYNDE

SYNOPSIS.

Chapter I.—Story opens at Garton. Beginning of political campaign with Bucks as candidate for governor. Was mayor of Garton during boom days when town was terminus of Trans-Western railway. David Kent, local attorney for railroad, entering Loring, old college classmate, to become general manager of road.

Chapter II.—Kent and Loring attend political meeting. Kent gives his opinion of Bucks. Loring leaves for capital, and his train pulls out. Kent of an old love affair of Kent's in the east.

Chapter III.—Mrs. Brentwood and daughter, Elinor and Penelope, of Bucks, start on journey to west. Choose Trans-Western route as they own stock in the line. Millionaire Brooks Ormsby, in love with Elinor, goes with them.

CHAPTER III.—(Continued.)

Miss Brentwood had the fair transparent skin that tells tales, and the blue-gray eyes were apt to confirm them. David Kent's letter was hidden in the folds of her loose waisted morning gown, and she fancied it stirred like a thing alive to remind her of its message. Ormsby was looking past her to the old fashioned ormolu clock on the high mantel, comparing the time with his watch, but he was not oblivious of the telltale flush.

"There is nothing embarrassing about the choosing of a route, is there?" he queried.

"Oh, no; being true Americans, we don't know one route from another in our own country," she confessed. "But at the western end of it we want to go over the Western Pacific."

Ormsby knew the west by rail routes as one who travels much for time killing purposes.

"It's a rather roundabout cow path," he objected. "The Overland Short Line is a good bit more direct; not to mention the service, which is a lot better."

But Elinor had made her small concession to David Kent's letter, and she would not withdraw it.

"Probably you don't own any Western Pacific stock," she suggested. "We do, and we mean to be loyal to our rail."

Ormsby laughed.

"I see Western Pacific has gone down a few points since the election of Gov. Bucks. If I had any, I'd wire my broker to sell."

"We are not so easily frightened," she asserted; adding, with a touch of the austerity which was her Puritan birthright: "Nor quite so conscienceless as you men."

"All of which goes to prove that you three lone women need a guardian. But I mustn't keep you any longer from Abigail and the trunks. What time shall I send the expeditors after your luggage?"

She told him, and went with him to the door.

"Please don't think me ungrateful," she said, when she had thrown the night-latch for him. "I don't mean to be."

"I don't think anything of you that I ought not to think; in that I am as conscientious as even you could wish. Good-by, until this evening. I'll meet you all at the station."

As had come to be the regular order of things, Elinor found herself under fire when she went above stairs to rejoin her mother and sister.

Mrs. Brentwood was not indifferent to the Ormsby millions; neither had she forgotten a certain sentimental summer at the foot of Old Croydon. She was a thin-lipped little person, plain spoken to the verge of unfriendliness; a woman in whom the rugged, self-reliant, Puritan strain had become panic acidulous. And when the Puritan stock degenerates in that direction, it is apt to lack good judgment on the business side, and also the passivity which smooths the way for incompetence in less assertive folk.

Kent had stood something in awe, not especially of her personality, but of her tongue; and had been forced to acquiesce silently in Loring's summing up of Elinor's mother as a woman who had taken culture and the humanizing amenities of the broader life much as the granite of her native hills takes polish—reluctantly, and without

IT WAS NO DREAM EVEN THOUGH NEARLY INCREDIBLE.

"For twenty years I suffered with piles, sometimes being confined to my bed for days at a time. The relief received from doctors, both in the United States and Mexico was temporary and more frequently I received no relief; other medicines had no effect; it was a continual drag; I was fit for nothing. I finally tried Pyramid Pile Cure; first application was magical; I could not believe I was awake next morning. I experienced a relief I had not known for twenty years."

"One box cured me, but not believing myself cured I bought two more and they are still in my trunk. I first tried this remedy in July, 1902; have had no occasion to use it since. The world should know of Pyramid Pile Cure. I have no words to express its merits." E. A. Leonard, Nueva Calle de San Antonio de las Huertas No. 5, City of Mexico.

Pyramid Pile Cure is in the form of a suppository, which is admitted to be the best form of treatment for piles; it comes in direct contact with the painful tumors and does its work quickly and painlessly. It is sold by druggists generally, for fifty cents a package and there is no other remedy "just as good." Write Pyramid Drug Co., Marshall, Mich., for their little book describing the cause and cure of piles, as it is sent free for the asking.

prejudice to its inner granular structure.

"Elinor, you ought to be ashamed to keep Brooks Ormsby dangling the way you do," was the comment when Elinor came back. "You are your father's daughters, both of you; there isn't a drop of the Grimkie blood in either of you, I do believe."

Elinor was sufficiently her father's daughter to hold her peace under her mother's reproaches; also, there was enough of the Grimkie blood in her veins to stiffen her in opposition when need arose. So she said nothing.

"Since your Uncle Ichabod made such a desperate mess of that copper business in Montana, we have all been next door to poverty, and you know it," the mother went on, irritated by Elinor's silence. "I don't care so much for myself; your father and I began with nothing, and I can go back to nothing, if necessary. But you can't, and neither can Penelope; you'd both starve. I should like to know what Brooks Ormsby has done that you can't tolerate him."

"It isn't anything he has done, or failed to do," said Elinor, wearily. "Please let's not go over it all again, mother."

Mrs. Brentwood let that gun cool while she fired another.

"I suppose he came to say good-by; what is he going to do with himself this winter?"

"He is going west."

Mrs. Brentwood looked up sharply.

"With us?" she queried.

"Yes."

Penelope clasped her hands and tried to look sorrowful.

"Oh, Elinor!" she cried; "have you—"

"No," Elinor retorted; "I have not."

CHAPTER IV.

THE FLESH-POTS OF EGYPT.

The westward journey began at the appointed hour in the evening with the resourceful Ormsby in command; and when the onsetting, in which she had to sustain only the part of an obedient automaton, was a fact accomplished, Elinor settled back into the pillowed corner of her sleeping car section to enjoy the unwelcome sensation of being the one cared for instead of the caretaker.

Two sections away the inevitable newly married pair posed unconsciously to point the moral for Miss Brentwood. She marked the eagerly anticipative solicitude of the boyish groom, contrasting it now and then with Ormsby's less obtrusive attentions. It was all very absurd and sentimental, she thought; and yet she was not without a curious heart-stirring of envy provoked by the self-satisfied complacency of the bride.

What had that bit of a girl done to earn her immunity from self-defending and the petty anxieties? Nothing, Elinor decided; at least, nothing more purposeful than the swimmer does when he lets himself drift with the current. None the less, the immunity was hers, undeniably, palpably. For the first time in her life Miss Brentwood found herself looking, with a little shudder of withdrawal and dismay, down the possible vista—possible to every unmarried woman of 21—militated by the unbroken years of spinsterhood and self-helpings.

Was she strong enough to walk this hedged-up path alone?—single hearted enough to go on holding out against her mother's urgings, against Ormsby's masterful wooing, against her own unconquerable longing for a sure anchorage; all this that she might continue to preserve her independence and live the life which, despite its drawbacks, was yet her own?

She took up the magazine Ormsby had left on the seat beside her and sought to put away the disquieting thoughts. But they refused to be dismissed; and now among them rose up another, dating back to that idealizing summer at the foot of Old Croydon, and having its genesis in a hard saying of her mother's.

She closed her eyes, recalling the words and the occasion of them. "You are wasting time and sentiment on this young upstart of a country lawyer, Elinor. So long as you were content to make it a summer day's amusement, I had nothing to say; you are old enough and sensible enough to choose your own recreations. But in justice to yourself, no less than to him, you must let it end with our going home. You haven't money for two."

Her eyes grew hot under the closed lids when she remembered. At the time the hard saying was evoked there was money enough for two, if David Kent would have shared it. But he had held his peace and gone away, and now there was not enough for two.

Elinor faced her major weakness unflinchingly. She was not a slave to the luxuries—the luxuries of the very rich. On the contrary, she had tried to make herself believe that hardness was a part of her creed. But lately, she had been made to see that there was a formidable array of things which she had been calling comforts; little luxuries which Brooks Ormsby's wife might reckon among the simplest necessities of the daily life, but which David Kent's wife might have to forego; nay, things which Elinor Brentwood might presently have to forego. For she compelled herself to front the fact of the diminished patrimony squarely. So long as the modest Western Pacific dividends were forthcoming, they could live comfortably and without pinching. But fail these—

"No, I'm not great enough," she confessed, with a little shiver. "I should be utterly miserable. If I could afford to indulge in ideals it would be different; but I can't—not when one word of mine will build a barrier so high that all the soul-killing little shimpings can never climb over it. And besides, I owe something to mother and Nell."

It was the final straw. When any weakness of the human heart can find a seeming virtue to go hand in hand with it, the battle is as good as lost; and at that moment Brooks Ormsby, placidly refilling his pipe in the smoking room of the Pullman, was by no means in the hopeless case he will sometimes tempt to fancy himself. As may be surmised, a diligent suit-or, old enough to plan thoughtfully, and yet young enough to simulate the youthful ardor of a lover whose hair has not begun to thin at the temples, would lose no ground in a three days' journey, and the opportunities it afforded.

In Penelope's phrase, Elinor "suffered him," enjoying her freedom from care like a sleepy kitten; shutting the door on the past and keeping it shut until the night when their through sleeper was coupled to the Western Pacific Flyer at A. & T. Junction. But late that evening, when she was rummaging in her handbag for a handkerchief, she came upon David Kent's letter, and read it again.

HANDKERCHIEFS.

Probably there are more Handkerchiefs given for Christmas Presents than any other one Article.

Everyone has to have them, and what is more they always will have to, as there is no substitute—we have them for show or blow, the strongest line in Janesville.

Prices to Suit Everybody.

We Mention A Few.

For Men, all linen, 1/4 and 1/2 inch hems at 12 1/2c.
Initial, fine linen at 25c. For Women, Initial from 10c to 25c, the latter being extra fine sheer linen. The Floral Initial, all linen are splendid for 15c. Unlaundered Initial, all linen, big sellers, 6 for 50c.

At 25 Cents all linen and Swiss, an immense assortment, the very best quarter handkerchiefs in America.
Fancy Handkerchiefs, low priced numbers under 25c, very good values. From 25c to $4.50, no one ever complains of our not having enough of them, and regarding styles, we buy from New York's largest importers who sell us only in Janesville, and our stock contains all the newest things.

A Specialty

we make of plain all linen Handkerchiefs, all widths of hems, for Women or Men, and our values are always exceptional.
By the Dozen we make prices lower than when sold singly.

Handkerchief Centers

We have them all, plain or fancy, 10c to 50c.
Box Handkerchiefs for Children, 3 in a box, white or colored 15 Cents.

One can do no better than make a bee line for the Big Store for Handkerchiefs.

We have only mentioned a few of the many, having said nothing about the many good things in SILK HANDKERCHIEFS, white and colored.

No Two Mouths Alike.
A dentist comes forward with the suggestion that casts should be taken of prisoners' mouths as a means of identification. He claims that the mouths of no two people are alike.
